LA FILLE DE MADAME ANGOT.-The first appearance this season of Richmond's favorite, Mrs. Alice Oates, with her large corps of artists, was the occasion of a brilcorps of artists, was the occasion of a brilliant gathering at the Theatre last night. The ever-welcome comic opera of La Fille de Madame Angot, by Lecocq, was given in a manner never surpassed in this city. Mrs. Oates sang and acted the part of "Clairette" with even more than her accustomed spirit and vivacity, and her audience, appreciating her efforts in their behalf, accorded her the sympathy and applause she so well merit-ed. The debut before a Richmond audience of Mile. Eme Roseau, who sustained the rôle of "Mme. Ange," was an event of prices and satisfaction guaranteed. special interest. She is a remarkably clever and natural actress, and has a mezzo-soprano voice of great purity and high cultivation. These accomplishments, combined with beauty and graceful manners, created a most favorable impression, and captivated the entire audience. Her success was complete, and her chances of becoming a general favorite with our people are beyond doubt. Both of these ladies were forced to respond to encores by repeating some of their choicest pieces. Mrs. Chapman, as "Amaranthe," was excellent. Mr. Charles H. Drew, as "Pomponet," sustained the part in a manner highly creditable and pleasing, while Mr. Howson's "Larivandiere" was very good. Mr. Laurent's "Ange Pitou" was well acted, but his singing, which was fair, failed to give general satisfaction, particularly when he essayed the high register. The chorus was unusually good, being composed of nearly twenty fine voices, almost perfectly drilled. The splendid costuming throughout the opera was the subject of very general remark.
